BOXERS ACTIVE DESPITE THE EUROPEAN STRUGGLE

Season Promises to Be Most Profitable and Enjoyable One to Promoters, Fans and Principals.

TWO BOUTS ON NOVEMBER 9
Freddie Welsh Meets Charley White at Milwaukee, and Clabby is Scheduled to Mix Fences With Chip in California—Britton in Bad.

Verily, this promises to be a most profitable and enjoyable boxing season, irrespective of the outcome of the military struggle of Continental nations. For a time it was thought that the moral effect of the war would make serious inroads into everything—but boxing appears to have escaped the scourge.

While a number of promoters are making rash pledges of sterling matches to their adherents, there are quite a few who have consummated really good bouts, and it is now up to the principals to go through with them.

Unless something unforeseen hobbles up in the interim, the West and Middle West will witness two of the best ring battles of the year. The first, that of the stagings of one of these conflicts is dubious, but the other is reasonably certain to be staged.

Out Milwaukee way, the day before yesterday, Freddie Welsh, lithe and lightweights, will match punch and skill with Charley White, Chicago's contender for the title, for ten rounds. From Andrew's camp, the fight was definitely on, as the weight question was not adjusted up to that time.

A matter of three hours threatened to disrupt the match. Welsh insisted on 135 pounds at 12 o'clock, while White persisted that the poundage be 133 pounds at 6 o'clock. Welsh being the dictator, his demand prevailed. He has difficulty attaining 135 at 3, and be strong at that figure.

The other bout of import, if it is permitted to go on, will be that between Jimmy Clabby, the Hammond whelp, and George Chip, the thumping Newcastle middleweight. The pair are scheduled to go through the motions for twenty rounds in far-away California. The class of the bout is doubtful, about the bout taking place is that boxing in California may be abolished between now and the time of the match.

The life of the bout is still in the balance, and the last will be determined at the general elections next week. As women have their suffrage there, they would not be surprised if they voted to annul the bill, it would be enforced immediately.

If perchance, there are no obstacles in the path of the battle the outcome would have a decided bearing on the final disposition of the middleweight championship. It was just four years ago that Stanley Ketchel was laid low by a murderer's hand, and still we have no champion worthy of taking Steve's place.

Clabby and Chip represent the two extremes in the boxing game. Clabby is clever, but entirely lacking a punch, while Chip makes no pretense at being a boxer, and has conceded about his person a terrific wallop. These two are entrenched in the front rank of middleweights and the loser will be eliminated from further reckoning as a contender.

Of course, there is Al McCoy, who admits he is the middleweight champion, but he is such a poor example of a high caliber fighter that in no quarter is he seriously considered. McCoy's forte is to knock down the poor misguided youths his manager, Danny Morgan, sets up.

Gunboat Smith may yet get that whack at Jack Johnson. If so, he will be heartily sorry for Jess Willard, who, to all intents and purposes, has his mind set on becoming the world's undisputed heavyweight champion.

Smith's manager, in receipt of a communication from Jim Coffroth, Francisco's effervescent fight promoter offering him a bout with Jack Johnson New Year's day at Tia Juana, Mexico.

Buchley did not hesitate in making reply. He wired back that Smith was agreeable to any conditions. Coffroth claims he has Johnson's consent to the match. So it is now up to Coffroth to make the next move. Tia Juana, Mexico, and is less than an hour's ride from San Diego, Cal.

Jack Britton, another Dan Morgan's protégé, is falling into bad habits. Britton was offered an opportunity to enhance his reputation by meeting Harry Stone, the demon of the Antipodes, but, as he could not fatten his purse at the same time, Britton ran out of the match, while a handful of Empire Club members were waiting for him to appear. Stone was at the club, and prepared to go on.

OLYMPIC MARATHON VICTOR IS DISCIPLINED

JOHNNY HAYES.
The Metropolitan Amateur Athletic Union has refused to sanction any more meets under the direction of Johnny Hayes, who won an Olympic Marathon, because Hayes is blamed for the awarding of prizes inferior to those advertised. The winner of the West New York Derby last July says he received a watch much the worse for wear as his reward.

FIRST NOTES COMING TO BANKS IN SOUTH

Federal Bank Currency for Meeting Needs of Cotton Producers.

RICHMOND IS TO GET SHARE

Money Will Be Ready for Delivery To-Day—Quota Probably Completed by November 10—Plans for Distribution Outlined.

WASHINGTON, November 1.—The first printed Federal reserve notes will go to the Federal reserve banks at St. Louis, Dallas, Atlanta and Richmond, to be available in supplying currency to carry out the plan adopted by the reserve board to the extent of the cotton planters of the South. A supply of these reserve notes will be ready for delivery to-morrow, and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing will complete the quota of the entire issue on or before November 10.

The apportionment of Federal reserve notes among the twelve Federal reserve banks is not a matter of public information. As the capital stock of the various banks will vary on a basis of the total capital and surplus of the member banks composing the department of each Federal reserve bank, it is to be assumed that a large allotment of the $200,000,000 issued will go to the Federal reserve bank at New York City, the supplies for the other banks depending on the ratio of their financial importance. The entire issue will be printed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing on or before November 30, and will be ready for delivery.

None of the issue, it is anticipated, will be held in storage vault. In fact, the Federal Reserve Board has now no facilities for storing money, and perhaps has no present need, as the Federal reserve notes will be forwarded without delay to the reserve banks to which they have been prepared.

BASED UPON DEMANDS OF INDIVIDUAL BANKS

The issue of the notes is based upon the demands of each individual Federal reserve bank for which it tends to proper collateral, as required by law. As the South has the greatest need of money—for relieving the cotton situation—and as the cotton pool of $125,000,000 will give it extensive securities to offer in exchange for Federal reserve notes, a large part of the first issue will undoubtedly drift in that direction. It is expected that $125,000,000 in the notes will be the vaults of the four Southern reserve banks by November 1.

It probably will be a full year before any issue of Federal reserve bank notes is made. In the meantime, the large stock of emergency currency on hand will be used in redemption of money in circulation. Owing to the prospective large issue of emergency currency, afterward by the Federal Reserve Board, a big order was given to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, that the stock will be disposed of before Federal reserve bank notes get in the hands of member banks and the public.

NEW RESERVE RATES

HEAD ARTISTIC CLASS
The new Federal reserve notes are regarded as the most artistic paper money ever put into circulation by the United States; the designs are entirely the product of the engravers of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, without the aid of distinguished talent in the public eye. Every essential feature known for circumventing counterfeiting is incorporated. The Secretary of the Treasury, who is the director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, while doing a good job, has been able to do it cheaply.

In the printing of 7,000,000 sheets of bank notes of aggregate face value of $200,000,000, it is probable that the banks which pay the bill will have saved something like $70,000 on a charge of somewhere in the neighborhood of $200,000.

In printing the Federal reserve notes on power presses, as authorized by a decision of the controller of the Treasury, the cost under what would have been the expense of hand presses was shaved at least $48,000. And, whereas bank notes have heretofore been delivered in sheets to the banks, requiring the added expense of about $2 a thousand sheets in the cutting apart before putting the notes into circulation, the Federal reserve notes will be delivered not only cut apart, but in sequence order, and fastened in bands on the aggregate value of the bundle of currency and the sequence numbers will be noted.

The Federal reserve notes are to bear the signatures of the Secretary of the Treasury and the Treasurer of the United States. The name of the postmaster of the United States, which has appeared on United States paper currency for half a century or longer, will not be seen for the first time. This is an innovation that gives a dignity to the paper currency of the United States.

Of sixty kinds of dies to print as many different kinds of stamps to be attached to various commodities as designating the payment of the new war emergency tax, every one has already been cut by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and printing from them begun. Already the Treasurer of the United States has received stamps of the denomination from the Bureau, and they have been forwarded to collectors by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Director Ralph, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, anticipated the needs of the administration, pre-empting ahead of the passage of the bill those dies which his judgment told him would be needed. The work began when the bill was under discussion in the House of Representatives. No loss has been entailed by this forwardness.

BANK NOTES READY FOR RICHMOND RESERVE BANK

Currency for This District First to Be Printed for New Financial System.

Governor George J. Seay, of the Richmond Reserve Bank, has been notified that the Bureau of Engraving and Engraving has engraved $500,000 of bank notes as the first installment of the reserve bank currency that will be used by the Richmond institution. The notes, for the local bank were the first to be printed, and place the Richmond bank and the Fifth Reserve District in the front again as leaders in the reserve system.

The currency will be held in Washington until the Richmond banks opens for business and the occasion arises for making drafts upon it. The printing of additional currency for use in the Richmond bank and in the other eleven reserve banks will proceed from now on at the rate of about $1,000,000 a day.

Approximately one-third of the member banks of the Fifth Reserve District, said Mr. Seay last night, have paid in the first installment of their subscription to the capital stock of the local bank. Gold and gold notes have been conveyed by express to the Richmond bank and have been stored in the vaults of local national and State banks pending the opening of the reserve bank on November 16.

"The bulk of the subscriptions will arrive to-morrow," said Mr. Seay. "Monday is the day fixed by the Reserve Board for their payment, and while there is no penalty attached for failure to pay up promptly, it is more than probable that most of the subscriptions will be in hand to-morrow night."

Under the provisions of the reserve act, each member bank is required to subscribe to the stock of the regional bank to the extent of a per cent of its own combined capital and surplus. The first installment is one-sixth of each bank's total subscription. The total of the first installment will be approximately $1,000,000.

The board of directors of the Richmond bank has left to the executive committee of that body the task of making up the staff with which the bank will begin business on November 16. Mr. Seay thought last night that the committee will be in a position by the end of this week to announce definitely the staff with which the bank will open.

At the Theatres To-Day.
Seekers after amusement and entertainment have a variety of offerings from which to choose to-day.

At the Academy of Music, Mrs. Kenny Lipzin, one of the best known Fiddish actresses in America, will present to-night only, "Jealousy," a play written for her. Mrs. Lipzin is said to be supported by an excellent company of actors, including Jacob Cone. Whether one understands the language or not, he may follow the greater part of such a performance as Mrs. Lipzin and her company are certain to offer, because of the wonderful pantomime ability displayed by Fiddish actors of the better class.

The Grace Scott Company will present at the Colonial Theatre all through the week, beginning to-night, that famous comedy of cheer, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." In this piece, Miss Perry will have full opportunity to show what she can do with a character part—that of Mrs.

Wiggs. Miss Scott will play Lovey

One of the funniest of all farces, "All the Comforts of Home," is the bill chosen by Miss La Verne for the present week at the Empire. Miss La Verne will again head her own company, in the role of Mrs. Bender, which it will be remembered, she played so amusingly some years ago, when the piece was presented by the Giffen Company.

"The Buyer From Pittsburgh," a sketch modeled along the lines of "Potash & Perlmutter," is the Lyric's blitzytopper for the first half of the week. Other acts are: Les Kelliers, acrobats; Charles and Adelaide Wilson, singers and dancers; Raymond, character impersonator, and the campbells, in music, comedy and song.

"The Follies of 1920," for which much is claimed by the producers, is the week's burlesque at the Bijou Theatre. Among the features presented is a "new" one-act version of "The Little Rebel." The first part is called "Meet Me at Maxims," and the show closes with "The Love Soldier."

Minstrels To-Morrow.
George Primrose and George Wilson, the two famous minstrels who have joined forces again after a separation of many years, will present their minstrel show at the Academy of Music to-morrow and Wednesday, with Wednesday matinee.

It is said that the veterans have surrounded themselves with an exceptionally clever company of singers, dancers and comedians, but that the burnt-cork stars themselves supply a large part of the entertainment, and contenting themselves with the exact and quality of the campbells, in music, comedy and song.

At the beginning of the play the hero is an out-and-out pessimist, and it is his reconstruction, together with an interesting love story, that is the theme of the story which Mr. Goodman is said to have told tersely and with telling force.

Mr. Skinner is supported by an excellent company, including Mrs. Skinner (Maud Durbin) and Florence Fisher in the two leading female parts.

Charles Frohman will present O. Skinner in "The Silent Voice" at the Academy of Music on November 5 and 10.

MANY INTERESTING FEATURES AT LANCASTER SCHOOL FAIR

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LANCASTER, November 1.—The Lancaster County School Fair last week was one of the most successful ever held in this part of the State, both in the exhibit and in the attendance.

The exhibits included literary, domestic, manual, and cultural work, as well as a most creditable display of native wild flowers and herbs. In the afternoon, the last day, the athletic contests took place, consisting of running, jumping and basketball. One of the most interesting features of the fair was the marching of the various schools of the county, from the exhibition hall to the grounds, where the pupils of each school sang their school songs and gave their school yell. During the program of the fair, Joseph W. Felt, editor of the Virginia Journal of Education, delivered to the teachers of the county a address on the importance of establishing closer relations between the teachers and the patrons of the public schools.

The fair was held at the fair grounds near Kilmarnock, where the Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway Company has a station. The fair was open from Tuesday to Sunday, and the grand prize offered for the school song contest was won by the White Stone High School.

Personal and Otherwise.
Mr. and Mrs. Archibald M. McCray, of New York, who are visiting their fine farm in Brunswick County, yesterday entertained their neighbors and friends at a barbecue. Several Petersburgers were present.

The Rev. E. P. Farham, pastor of King George Circuit of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will, on account of impaired health, take the superannuated position at the conference which meets in Portsmouth, and will make his home in Petersburg, where he formerly resided.
